“ Every child has a favorite grandma and grandma Jean was mine. It's so hard for me to believe she's gone. I'll never forget her hugs and she's always spoil me and I always doted on her. I'll never forget going to visit grandma we'd get up early in the morning and have out bowl of oatmeal then it was off to do her morning errands then we'd stop at mcdonalds for a cheeseburger to tide us over till lunch then it was time for her soap operas. She'd stretch out in her recliner and I with a big fluffy pillow would curl up on the floor then we'd watch her stories until we both started snoring. Then waking up it was lunch time. Grandma loved to watch the birds in her back yard so in her garage she kept 2 huge plastic trash cans one was filled with corn and the other with bird seed and every time I'd go visit she'd let me go fill the bird feeder then we'd sit and wait for the birds. She had a few cardinals that would hang around and every time we'd see one she'd look over at me and say Amy Jo whenever you see a red bird it means good luck. Then she'd make lunch. I'll never forget our Sunday drives where I'd ride with her to make her rounds around town where she would go check up on her mom in the nursing home then it was off to my uncle her son Rod's house to check up on him and from there it was off to uncle Wes's house from there it was back to her house and on the way back not far from grandma's house was this long tunnel and before we'd drive through the tunnel she'd always tell me to close my eyes and make a wish but never tell what you wished for or it won't come true then she'd try to trick me by asking what did you wish for and I'd just giggle and say nope I'm not telling. Then just a couple short years before she left this earth on one of our last visits she told me to go into her room and on her dresser was her jewelry box and she told me to go look through it and if I found anything I liked I could have it and it just so happens I found a 14 carat gold ring with 2 small rubies and one slightly larger ruby and a cluster of diamonds on the side of both small rubies and being that ruby is my birthstone I grabbed it and slipped it on my finger and I went into the kitchen to show her what I found and she looked at that ring and said there's a story for that ring and she told me the story which made it all the more special to me she said that grandpa bud had went to the jewelry store and bought this ring for her for her birthday and when he gave it to her she didn't really like it because it didn't fit her finger right so she never really wore it so she said she was glad that I loved it. And to this day I still have that ring and I've never took it off and now whenever I think of grandma or I start to miss her again or I see a red bird I'll spin the ring on my finger and I look up to heaven and say I love you grandma. I could drive through that tunnel right now I wish for one more day with Grandma I'd wish for one more Sunday Drive one more early morning errands more cheeseburger from McDonald's one more nap during her story and most of all I just wish for one more hug this one more moment with her so I can tell her how much I loved her tell her how much she meant to me. I miss and love you very much grandma I'll see you again someday I love you I love your little Amy jo “Reva Jean (grandma jean) was and forever will be my favorite grandma and I was always her little Amy jo she spoiled me and I doted on her. Every child has a favorite grandma growing up and she was mine. I always looked forward to another visit to grandmas house. It's so hard for me to believe she's no longer here for me to go visit and for me and her to go together to do all her early morning errands then a quick cheeseburger from mcdonalds to tide us over till lunch. I miss her hugs and watching her afternoon soap operas. She would stretch out in her recliner and I with a big fluffy pillow on the floor and we'd watch her soap operas until we both started snoring. Then when we'd wake up it was lunch time. I miss going to visit and helping her with the little things. She loved to watch the birds in her back yard so in her garage she kept 2 big plastic trash cans 1 filled with corn and the other with bird sees and every time I'd go see her she'd always say I save this chore for you would you mind filling the bird feeder for me. I never minded. Then we'd sit and watch the birds together and she always has a couple of cardinals that would always hang around and every time we'd see one she'd look at me and say when you see a red bird it means good luck. And I miss our Sunday car rides not far from grandma's house was this tunnel and every time we'd drive through the tunnel grandma would say to me close your eyes and make a wish but never tell what you wished for or it won't come true. If I could drive through that tunnel now I'd wish for just one more day with my grandma one last through the tunnel and town one last nap while watching grandma her stories one last bird watch one last hug. Just one last day to tell her how much I loved her. I don't think I'll ever be able to heal from losing her she meant so much to me and I didn't get to tell her that before she left. Rest in peace grandma I'll see you again someday. I love and miss you so much. Love, your little Amy jo.

“ SO SORRY FOR YOUR LOSS.

BUD and Family have been an important part of my life for many many years and the loss of the "Momma Boss" has to leave a large hole in your Hearts. She did an outstanding job of Leading the charge in keeping Bud and Family under her thumb. We love you all and will keep you all in our Prayers.

“ So thankful for all the years knowing Jean and Bud. All the traveling on weekends in the back of the suburban with Wes, Heavy, Spiva and lots of others as we were a rowdy crew. As we grow up we do not know the influence that others have in our life's, but the friendships with our close friends parents help form us. Jean was a wonderful person and dealt with some orneriness, but sure always threw it right back to keep you in line. Our prayer's are with the family for comfort through this time of celebrating her life in knowing that Jean is in Heaven with Jesus.
