“ Ron was my brother in law and a super talented person . He spent every possible moment with family . He was a huge man , but was a gentle giant full of love . He literally spent all year long using his God given talent of woodworking making special things for family . However his great grand children were the most special people in the world to him. He was always building something for them and many of them were huge custom projects just for them , built with the quality and detail of a true craftsman . He and my sister were the ideal couple and now they are once again together . RIP my friend .

“ I only met Ron one time but talked frequently to him on the phone and online, he really loved his family and the great grandkids meant everything to him. He got mad at me because I said I stay away from mine but there are 15 of them and it is rowdy.. He was a great man. Sherry Burns
